

Shared by Liyanne 1 January 2023

This is a most intimate selfie...

... one of my healing tumoured left breast with a watercolour 'filter' applied to bring out the beautiful patterns of healed wounds and still-healing tumour...

With this share I honour the current planetary vibrations of the approaching exact Venus/Pluto conjunction* by revealing something that normally stays 'secret' - the physical effect of successfully LIVING WITH CANCER for over 7.5 years, NO chemo, radiation, surgery or pharmaceuticals...

Just ME determinedly enduring (Mars in Scorpio 10H) and learning to work with my body's own intelligence and Mama Nature... 'The only difference between a Comedy and a Tragedy is how the characters respond to the plot twists in the storyline'

This is a line that I read only this morning on Facebook (thank you Felina Kavi) and include it because it is SO pertinent.

Liyanne Unasa – Last Picture of YoU 2023

I LOVE LIFE and laughter, my response to this 'plot twist' in 2015 was to 'Get busy Living' (a line from my No.1 favourite film) ... In the process I have learned so very much about myself, and the world.. The most profound learnings I take forward into 2023 are that:

-there is Strength in showing your Vulnerability and

-there is always Beauty (and humour) to be found in Darkness ...

This post is a beginning as I mean to carry on in 2023- shining my heart's Light, burning it Pure and Bright... May living my heart's Truth serve as encouragement for others to live theirs... In the spirit of my Cancer Moon (5H) - if this has touched something vulnerable or secret you've been wanting to share, even with just one other person, I hope this has opened the door for You to do so...🙏

Wishing you ALL a wonder-filled 2023!

Alofa tele atu
(with so much Love)

from my heart's Light to Yours

